

2008 ATHENA Nominees

Stacey Smith

Stacey Smith is the founder of Prairie Quest Consulting specializing in the Business Transformation and Project Management. Over the last 25 years, her experiences have covered the public and private sectors, defense and aerospace, insurance/finance, human resources and Information Technology arenas. Stacey spent 21 years working in the military arena for prime contractors, including work for Rockwell/Lockheed on the space shuttle program. After graduating Magna Cum Laude from Berry University in Miami, Florida in 1998, she changed her focus from the defense and aerospace industries to finance and insurance.

On being nominated for the ATHENA Award...

"Fort Wayne is an exceptional community that provides opportunities for women both as business leaders and business owners. When I look at the caliber of women that have been nominated, both past and present, I am proud to be nominated."
